Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

It seems every week brings new efforts from the federal government to shift the burden of taxes from the wealthy to those of us with limited incomes. I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change the way contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone only for emergency situations. I don't want to lose the safety and security afforded me so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,
